

2012: Class Notes Archives

----- From July 2017 AALFNY Newsletter -----

● Daniela Suarez-Rebling (LSY: Terminale in 2012) wrote: "I'm writing to you with an update on my whereabouts: I graduated from Harvard University a few months ago, in May 2016, with a major in History and Science and a minor in Global Health and Health Policy. I took some time off to study for the MCAT after graduation and now I'm working at Massachusetts General Hospital in the Division of Global Health and Human Rights as a program coordinator/research assistant. I plan on applying to Medical School this summer and then attending within the next two years in order to continue my work in Global Health as a physician."

● Anne-Sophie Donnet (LSY: Terminale in 2012) wrote: "Just a little update for all my classmates from 2012. Unlike most of you who have been graduating in the last couple of years from your respective universities, I unfortunately still have a bit of time to go and hopefully, if all goes well, six years later, I will be a doctor by February 2018 from Manchester Medical School. Very exciting news! My experience of studying in the U.K. has been incredible and I would really recommend doing a masters or a whole degree there for anyone who is considering it! Thanks for reading and best of luck to everyone :-)"

● Emily Robinson (LSY: 5eme in 2007) graduated from City University of New York-Hunter College in 2016 and is currently an Intern (Educational Outreach Center) at the 92nd Street Y in NYC.

● Patrick Bucyana (LSY: 6eme in 2006): "Recent graduate of John Carroll University with a Bachelor's degree in Political Science and Philosophy. Currently pursuing a Master's degree in Human Rights at the London School Of Economics and Political Science. I am passionate about Human Rights, International Relations, Political thought, Social and political philosophy and

● Anna Vitsentzadou (LSY: 5eme in 2007): “22, fresh out of uni, tons of creative experience, and ready for my next adventure! With a background in fashion, politics, literature and the arts, I can capture pretty much anything you're after. Let it be through visual arts, photography, creative or professional writing, I can help you craft something that's unique or just simply to the point. Communications is my strong suit. With academic and professional exposure to fashion, I've delivered photographic projects spanning from ad campaigns to publications and everything in between. Nurturing my creative identity ever since, I've learned to be confident and idiosyncratic..... I've also got tons of copywriting experience and can write up pretty much anything including press releases, social media content, consumer content, articles, reviews, reports, and interviews. Having done a master in politics, I've also had a fair share of practice in academic writing! I also speak English, French & Italian at a native level.”

● Roman Finkelstein (LSY: Terminale in 2012) was quoted in the press regarding the April, 2015 riots in Baltimore: "..... A CVS Pharmacy located in downtown Baltimore was looted and burned by protestors. Roman Finkelstein, a junior at Maryland Institute College of Art, says that his classes were cancelled for the day of the curfew. He walked into the abandoned CVS that had just been looted with the alarms blaring saying, "It was very eerie. It seemed like something out of a movie. I went in just to check it out, but honestly I was scared. There were no cashiers or anything. It was like it was Doomsday or something."

● Alexandre Vandeville (LSY: 4eme in 2008) a eu son Bac au Lycée Saint-Louis de Gonzague en 2012, et a fini sa Classe Préparatoire aux Grandes Ecoles (CPGE), Economique et Commerciale / voie Scientifique (ECS) au Lycée Saint-Jean de Passy en 2014. Il est étudiant à ESSEC Business School (2014-2017). Il a fait un stage d'Assistant Contrôleur de Gestion chez BNP Paribas en 2015. (<https://fr.linkedin.com/in/alexandrevandeville/en>)

● Scherezade Khan (LSY: 3eme in 2009) graduated from Phillips Academy Andover in 2012, and currently expects to obtain a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science and Government at Tufts University in 2016. "Politics is undeniably [my] first love, but I would argue that this love has only grown stronger through my experience in communications and marketing. I've had the opportunity to write media advisories, make pitch calls and generate social media content for a wide variety of foundations, non-profit and for-profit organizations through incredible internships with The Raben Group and BerlinRosen Public Affairs. I've applied the same skills to everything I do on-campus, from running my civics education program to being a leader in Greek life. I can't wait to take these skills to the next level after college, while always staying up to date on breaking news." (<https://www.linkedin.com/in/scherezadekhan>)

● Jeanne Biteau (LSY: 2nde in 2010) obtained her Baccalauréat (Sciences) at La Salle Passy Buzenval in 2012. She is currently a student at IESEG School of Management, enrolled in the Master's program specialized in Audit and Control. She is also the head of Consulting at IESEG Conseil Paris (a student association of IÉSEG School of Management which follows the operating model of a consultancy firm). (<https://fr.linkedin.com/in/jbiteau>)

● Driss Bel Hadj Soulami (LSY: 5eme in 2007) obtained his Baccalauréat (Section Scientifique, mention très bien) at the Lycée Français Charles de Gaulle in 2012. He is currently a student at Imperial College London, expecting to obtain a Masters in Mechanical Engineering in 2016. (<https://uk.linkedin.com/in/driss-bel-hadj-soulami-74091978>)

● Ioan Delice (LSY: Terminale in 2012) : "Born January 13, 1994, the Brooklyn native of French/Haitian descent is inspired by an eclectic range of artists – from Hip Hop legend Big L, to France’s most popular and enduring singer Charles Aznavour. As an ambassador to his generation, Ioan also pays homage to the cartoons that formed his childhood and taps the creative influence of reputable composer Jim Lang and Japanese Hip Hop producer Nujabes – who have written scores for Hey! Arnold and Samurai Champloo respectively. Ioan’s artistry also draws its inspiration from having grown up in Kings County, widely recognized as the rap capital of the world, at a time when its gritty reputation held true. The musician’s explorations of romantic, spiritual, interpersonal, and societal themes, mixed with his playful and unorthodox style of rapping, breaks hip-hop boundaries with new artistic expression. Through his soulful meandering and multi-cultural influence, Ioan fearlessly delves into the creative process of his talent and is continuously expanding his audience by delivering songs that escape the fleet of trends." (<http://ioandelice.com/>)

● Poline Tchoubar (LSY: Terminale in 2012): "Down from my Russian roots to the tip of my French leaves, I believe that careful research and honest reporting are essential to make reliable information and critical thinking stand out in the buzzing noise of the media era. I’m a political science student at the French German European campus of Sciences Po in Nancy, and am currently doing an internship in international relations in the magnetic city of Berlin. Events are never one-sided, and writing helps to make sense out of them." (<https://nynsolite.wordpress.com/2015/03/21/about-me/>)

● Pierre Lataillade (LSY: 4eme in 2008) "I studied at the preparatory school at Lycée Privé Sainte-Genève and I am now a student at Supélec. I'm interested in anything that has to do with computer science, be it on the software or hardware level or even on a more conceptual algorithmical level."
